

Nancy Fuentes '11 Bio

As a co-owner of Gloria's® Latin Cuisine, the leading Salvadoran and Tex-Mex restaurant in Texas, Nancy Fuentes '11 leverages a wide range of culinary and restaurant experience in planning the future of the restaurant brand.

Before her current role, Fuentes served as the research and development chef for Gloria's; she also worked as a line cook for FT33 and Stephan Pyles.

Fuentes received her bachelor of science in Culinary Arts from Johnson & Wales University in Providence, Rhode Island. While attending Johnson and Wales, she served as an assistant to then-Special Events Chef, T.J. Delle Donne.

In her spare time, Fuentes is on the board of St. Jude Children's Research Hospitals' Noche de Esperanza Gala. In addition, she enjoys being a new mother, spending time with her family, cooking, traveling, and her 5 dogs.
